BODY WAS LODGED AGAINST THE SEINE

Remains of Jerry McMahon Found by Searchers This Morning After Long Hunt

INQUEST IS BEING HELD TODAY

Springs in Bottom of River May Have Caused Cramps

This morning about 9:30 o'clock a party of searchers composed of John Mishler, John Frye and N. A. Heckman found the body of Jerry McMahon lodged against the seine stretched at the foot of Brierton's island, about a mile and a quarter below the point where the unfortunate young man was drowned.

A large party has been searching for the body since Sunday afternoon. A dispatch received from the young man's relatives in Pennsylvania asks that the body be sent to them when found, but on account of its condition this may not be done.

The body was brought to Dixon and an inquest was held at 3 o'clock this afternoon. In the inquest the fact was brought out that the river is only ten feet deep at the point where the young man was drowned, but the sandy bottom gives indications of springs, the cold water from which may have given McMahon cramps and caused his drowning.

The inquest had not been completed at the hour of going to press

SCHOLARSHIP TO DIXON BOY.

Geo. H. Brown Will Enter University of Chicago October 1st.

Geo. H. Brown, son of Dr. G. W. I. Brown, has been awarded a scholarship in the University of Chicago through the efforts of Principal Bullard of the Dixon High school.

The university offers annually twenty-five free scholarship to the co-operating schools outside Chicago, and as there are more schools than scholarship Mr. Brown is very fortunate. The scholarship covers the tuition fee of $120 for the school year beginning October 1, 1904. The student receiving the scholarship must enter the school without condition and with the high recommendation of principal and teacher.

Prof. Bullard received the letter yesterday from F. J. Miller, dean of affiliation notifying him of the award of the scholarship. Mr. Brown will take up a general course of study in the university and we congratulate him and wish him success.

It is believed that by night the slaughtering industry of the country will be practically at a standstill. No one can foretell how long the strike will last and meat is expected to take a jump in price at once.

Within a short time it will be impossible to secure meat at all, unless the packers succeed in running their establishments with non-union labor. There has been no violence so far.

Trust Companies and National Banks

By B. RIDGELY, Comptroller of the Currency

TRUST companies, organized under state laws originally designed to provide for companies doing a STRICTLY TRUST BUSINESS, are taking advantage of the liberal character of those laws, and a very large portion of the new organizations are merely COMMERCIAL BANKS, having trust company privileges, perhaps, but in reality doing comparatively little strictly trust business.

The laws of the different states, particularly in regard to the cash reserves to be held and with regard to loaning money on real estate security, are so liberal that organizations of this character have a great advantage over the national banks in the inducements they can offer their customers.

The question of what shall be done in the way of control of these new trust companies is a very important one. It would be a great mistake for the different states to allow the national banking system to be broken down or even SERIOUSLY WEAKENED by new organizations which are able to do so because they are less carefully examined and controlled by the states than the national banks.

The regular trust company business is a very important part of any financial system, and calls for the highest degree of character, honor and ability. When the trust companies attempt to add not only ordinary commercial banking, but in many cases underwriting and promotion of all sorts of new enterprises, the case becomes entirely different. It can hardly be said to be a reasonable or proper regulation of the banking and trust company business to allow the organization, under the same law, of concerns which not only have the power to act as trustees in important capacities, but which also have the power, if the management is so recklessly inclined, to do a general commercial banking business WITH LITTLE OR NO CASE RESERVE, and even to underwrite, as has been done in a recent notable instance, an issue of bonds and securities several times in value the combined capital, surplus and deposits of the so called trust company.

If there is any reason why a national bank should maintain reserves against commercial deposits the same reason will apply to commercial accounts in any other bank, whether called a trust company or not. A trust company with a large business in its trust department, if it also has a banking or savings department, owes it to its customers and to the public to see that the banking department is not so conducted as in the slightest degree to endanger its trusts.

THE VERY EXISTENCE OF THOSE TRUST OBLIGATIONS SHOULD MAKE ITS BANKING DEPARTMENT ULTRA CONSERVATIVE AND CAREFUL, AS SO MANY OF THEM ARE.

The trust company whose chief business is in its banking and savings department, and is carefully and conservatively managed, is more interested than any one else that reckless and incompetent, not to say dishonest, men shall not be given similar charters under laws which are so liberal as to permit them to run competing banks without proper reserves and all the SAFEGUARDS which experience in all countries have shown to be necessary in conducting the banking business.

Whatever regulation or control there is to be of the trust companies must come, for the present at least, FROM THE STATE GOVERNMENTS. Federal control of the national banks has been so satisfactory and successful that some desire is expressed for federal control of OTHER banks and trust companies. There has not been, however, so far as I know, any practical suggestion made by which institutions can be forced or persuaded to submit to federal control, especially if it is to be more severe than that now experienced by the states.

FEDERAL CONTROL, THEREFORE, DOES NOT SEEM TO BE A PRESENT PRACTICAL QUESTION.

Household FRUIT CANNING.

Useful Points in the Handling and Sealing of Glass Jars.

The jars must be prepared with a scientific conscience. First test each jar to see if it is water tight. Keep each jar with its tested cover and rubber by itself, so when you are ready to fill with the fruit you are sure it is right. After cleansing and testing, sterilize jars, covers and rubbers by bringing to the boiling point in water. Rubbers should never be used the second time. The small cost of a new rubber is more than compensated for in the entire lack of risk, for rubber will deteriorate by use and time. Have all the needed utensils ready at hand, using only porcelain or granite ware and silver spoons.

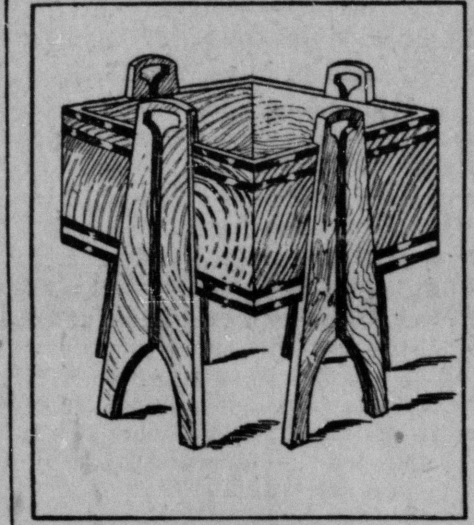

Neither iron, tin nor brass should be used with fruit, as the acid may combine in a dangerous way. Stand the jars in hot water while the fruit is cooking. Fill and seal one jar at a time. Empty the water from the jar, place on a folded cloth wrung out in hot water or stand in a pan with a little hot water to prevent any danger of breaking. A silver spoon in the jar while filling also helps to carry off the heat and save the glass. Fill to overflowing and pass a silver spoon around the sides of the glass to let all air bubbles escape. Wipe off the edges carefully, fit on the rubber and screw down the cover tightly. Set each jar upside down on the table, free from drafts.

When cold, rescure down the covers, as glass contracts in cooling and the cover can be tightened. Wipe off with a clean cloth, and if there is no leakage or loosening of the cover place in a dark, dry fruit closet. If the cellar has any tendency to dampness do not put the fruit there. Carefully choose the closet to hold the fruit.

The amount of sugar used in all canning and jellies is a matter of taste, as sugar does not affect the "keeping" qualities of the fruit.—Table Talk.

For Plants Out of Doors.

Plants for piazza and front lawn decoration during the summer often lose half their effectiveness from the manner of their setting. The round tub so commonly seen is usually not the best. Palms, large ferns, shrubs and small trees of various sorts often look better in a square box. Especially is this true of the round trimmed bay trees that are so handsome for outdoor use.

The square tub also seems rather more susceptible to a little decorative treatment, as shown in the cut. This, however, should be only just enough to break the severity of hard and plain lines and never anything fanciful enough to distract attention from the plant itself.

Lemonade and Lime Juice.

There is nothing more satisfactory, usually on hot days, than good lemonade, or "lemon squash," as our British cousins call it. One lemon to one pint of water; very little sugar is best. But when one is forty miles from a lemon a harmless substitute may be made from citric acid, either pulverized or in crystals, using lemon extract for flavoring. No ill effects can result from using this acid in such small quantities as to make tart a cooling drink or pudding sauce, for it must be remembered that this is the acid found in the fruits of the citron family, the lemon, lime, orange, grapefruit, etc., and used in moderation is healthful.

For some people a drink in which there is a suggestion of bitter quenches thirst more effectively than anything else. A tablespoonful of the commercial bottled juice of limes with a dash of calisaya is very refreshing, or just enough dandelion wine to flavor a glassful of water.—Exchange.

Left Overs.

Cold string beans make an excellent salad. Add a teaspoonful of chopped onion to a cupful of beans, salt and pepper to taste. Cut a small slice of bacon into dice and fry, add half a cupful of vinegar and pour over the bean while hot.

To prepare string beans with cheese melt a small piece of butter in a frying pan, add the cooked beans, milk, according to the quantity of beans, salt to taste and then scatter in a thick layer of grated cheese and cook ten minutes.

Lobster a la Newburg.

Melt a tablespoonful of butter in a saucepan and stir in half a tablespoonful of flour. Stir until smooth and add a cupful of cream, stirring it in gradually. When the cream is hot add two pounds of lobster meat cut into small pieces, salt and cayenne to taste. Finally add the beaten yolks of two eggs and serve immediately.

Love of Country—Love of Woman

Which will prevail when the man is an officer in the American navy and the woman is young, beautiful, high born and wealthy, of noble character and charming personality? This is the theme of the patriotic story

For Love of Country

By CYRUS TOWNSEND BRADY

To Be Printed In This Paper

The moral of the story—for it has a moral and a good one—is that, in places of high trust, all personal motives must be utterly surrendered that duty may be done.

—The Churchman.

Of special interest to all who cherish the love of country and the memory of the heroes who fought and gained our independence.

—Journal of Education, Boston.

Marked by quick action, lively dialogue and graceful management of a very pretty love story.

—Philadelphia Bulletin.

Don't Miss the First Chapter

Dr. Prettyman

Much has been said of this specialist and the good work he has done in our state. People wonder at his cures but the evidence is so strong they cannot ignore it. Families and homes have been made glad on account of restoration to health of some member. These cures are not the results of guess work nor blind experience. Each case is thoroughly examined and carefully studied and the true facts regarding it are brought out and he then knows how to treat it. Treatments, therefore, differ with the habits, conditions complications and peculiarities of the patients. No two are alike. This is the reason he is so successful. Consult him free at the Nachusa Hotel Wednesday, July 13.

THE CHRONICLE REPUBLICAN.

The Chicago Chronicle, a Democratic paper since its founding some eight years ago, announces editorially today that it will hereafter advocate the principles and candidates of the Republican Party. Its editorials have been read with interest by the men of all parties on account of their cleanness and fairness and a paper with such principles is gladly welcomed into the ranks of Republican journalism. The Chronicle quits the Democratic party on account of its platform and the stamp of Populism which clings to it. The only hope of safe government is in the party now in power, says the Chronicle. The editorial follows:

The Chronicle is not in sympathy with Mr. Bryan's ideas. For eight years it has refused to believe that Mr. Bryan's ideas were acceptable to the real Democrats of the country. The result at St. Louis appears to end the discussion. He and Hill are in control. He and Hill have named the ticket and made the platform.

A timid eastern Democrat, who fondly imagined that he could be nominated as an unknown, has been placed on the ticket with an octogenarian free silverite from West Virginia and supplied with a platform which amounts to an indorsement of the platforms of Chicago and Kansas City. The Populist west and the reactionary south are again in alliance, with a new leader, it is true, but with no change in principal and purpose. The ticket bears the stamp of Populism. There is not a plank in the platform which was not modified by Populism.

When one thousand men, representing the Democrats of the United States, most of them chosen with much difficulty as representatives of what is called conservative Democracy, permit a mere demagogue to bully them into wrong doing it must be that the demagogue is greater than the party.

Two-thirds of the delegates to the national Democratic convention voted for Judge Parker on the first ballot—the man whom Mr. Bryan had traduced for three months, the man whose friends Mr. Bryan had vilified, the man who Mr. Bryan had said should not be nominated and could not be elected.

When a cowardly committee representing these delegates brought in a platform which was silent on the money question not a voice was raised in expostulation or protest. While hundreds were ready to shout for Parker, not one appeared in defense of elementary democracy.

Mr. Bryan not only graciously permits the Democratic party to name a candidate whom he has done his best to defeat in advance but he places him on a platform with a hole in it big enough to drop the entire party through.

It is bad enough to have Mr. Bryan dominating radical Democratic convention. When Mr. Bryan is able to silence a "conservative" Democratic convention the situation becomes intolerable. A mixture of William J. Bryanism and David B. Hillism is insupportable.

The Democratic party is attached to Bryanism. It is subservient to Bryan. It has been persuaded against its natural inclinations to nominate an unknown candidate whom Bryan has antagonized, but it has permitted Bryan to do the rest. The democratic party is Bryan, and there is no reason to suppose that its triumph under the leadership of a man who voted twice for Bryan and free silver, and boasted of it, would be anything else than a triumph for Bryan.

Disagreeing fundamentally with this leader and his party in most things, and agreeing with the Republican party in the essentials of its creed, the Chronicle today takes leave of the Democratic party and allies itself with the Republicans.

As at present constituted and led, the Democratic party is a menace to the peace, the prosperity, and the integrity of the United States and its people. It has discarded Democratic principles and taken up with the radicalism of Populists and Socialists and the obstructionism and the cowardice of wreckers and demagogues. No good can come out of it. With a blank for a candidate and a blank for a platform, it will become more and more a contemptible instrumentality for the exploitation of William J. Bryan and the school of demagogues following in his train.

The Chronicle believes that the Republican party, while not free of fault by any means, offers the American people at this time the only prospect of efficient, intelligent, and honest government that is anywhere to be seen, and, so believing, it will do what it can to advance its principles and to strengthen its candidates.

AGED LADY JUMPS IN RIVER

Mrs. Kauffman of Rockford Attempts Suicide, but Will Live.

Angry because her daughter-in-law had placed a bed in the parlor of the home on Ninth Street, Mrs. Katherine Kauffman, 84 years old, attempted to commit suicide Saturday by jumping from the Walnut street bridge at Rockford, into Rock River, according to the belief of her relatives, after she had been rescued from death in the stream. At the City Hospital where she was taken Mrs. Kauffman protests that she did not attempt to commit suicide, but that while gazing at the water she became dizzy and fell over the railing.

—Fred Becker, a driver for William J. Higginbottom, rescued the aged woman, noticing her in the water when driving across the bridge. With in a few moments of the rescue, the police patrol arrived, having been summoned by telephone by others who saw the woman and who thought she jumped into the river.

PARDON DENIED CRANDALL

Clerk of Woodmen Head Office Must Remain in Jail.

The state board of pardons has refused a pardon to Walter K. Crandall, who pleaded guilty at the September term, 1903, of the Rock Island circuit court, to embezzlement and was sentenced to an indeterminate term in the penitentiary at Joliet. Crandall was a clerk in the head offices of the Modern Woodmen of America in Rock Island, and was given four warrants of $3,000 each to cash. After he had cashed them, he fled and was captured in Vancouver, British America. He made good the shortage before he was arrested, and for this reason the officers of the Modern Woodmen and others asked that he be pardoned.

Randolph and Hood a real surprise. The evening was spent in playing games and singing songs. Rev. Brooks, who was present, expressed for the company the esteem in which both young men were held by all their friends and acquaintances. He also spoke of the regret everyone felt concerning their departure, yet wishing them all success in their future undertakings.

Burlington May Pension Men.

The Burlington road is taking the ages of its employees. The purpose is not known, but as the ages are asked only from those who are rather well advanced in years, it is believed that the company has some intention of organizing a pension system. The pension system has been in vogue on the Northwestern a good many years and is proving a good thing. At the age of retirement a man who has followed rail roading all his life is unfit for any other kind of service, and if an employee has faithfully performed his work all these years, it is recognition that is rightfully due him by the company.

The funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock at her late home and interment was in the Lyndon cemetery. Mrs. Dudley was born in Orleans county, N. Y., July 9, 1819. She accompanied her parents to Illinois, driving overland, and arrived here in 1835 and settled at Lyndon, where she has since resided.

How to Use Coke Successfully.

To use coke successfully and to get the best results from it, the large lumps should be broken. There should be a good thickness of coke and it should be given a fair start with kindling and a fair draft, and by treating it in this way it will give a beautiful, clean and efficient fire.

It is cheaper, cleaner, and more efficient than either coal or wood. The County Lighting Company is now prepared to accept orders, to be filled for the next winter's supply, at 5.70 per ton, delivered.

Orders given now will be accepted for next fall and winter delivery at this price. If the price of coal advances the price of coke always advances with it, unless orders are given beforehand. The price of coal generally advances in the fall and winter.

BUSINESS IN HARMON

COUNCIL ORDERS MORE WALKS

Palmyra Insurance Case—Interesting News of the Village

(Special Correspondence)

Harmon, Ill., July 12.—Other things being equal, the amount of produce sold by the farmer is a good index by which his prosperity can be measured. The figures for Harmon would therefore indicate that the condition of the farmers in this vicinity is not enviable, and that there are grounds for the complaint of hard times. For the fiscal year ending June 30, 1904, there were shipped from Harmon station 180 carloads of corn, 60 of oats and 28 of stock. During the fiscal year preceding there were shipped 256.58 and 63 carloads respectively, of corn, oats and live stock. These figures indicate, on their face, that the tiller of the soil had only about 71 per cent as much to sell this year as he had last. Furthermore, prices obtained for this year's produce are not so big as last year's; so, apparently, the farmer is in a bad way. But there are reasons to believe the figures are somewhat deceptive. In the first place, quite a large number of farmers haul their produce to stations on the Peoria branch of the C. & N. W. R. R., claiming they can at times get better prices for grain. A reason for Harmon's poor showing as a live stock shipping point was the poor stock yard facilities here. This has been remedied. Mr. Jenkins, the principal stock buyer here has driven a large part of his purchases to LaMoille, that being his principal place of business. During the past year there were 35 car loads of lumber shipped to Harmon, 59 of coal and 59 of miscellaneous merchandise. The Burlington's revenue from its station here was $6,678.87 for 1903, and $6,221.11 for 1904. Through the efforts of Agent B. S. Sweet, assisted by Agent Thorne of Sterling, the facilities for shipping live stock have been increased, and are now all that could be desired.

At the council meeting Tuesday evening an ordinance was passed authorizing the construction of a cement sidewalk on Second street from the railroad track south to the Catholic church. Other proceedings were instituted so the cost of the walk can be collected the same as any other tax, obviating such a mess as resulted in the case of the Swartz walk. A check for $100 was made out to settle attorneys' fees made necessary by mandamus and other proceeding growing out of the sidewalk matter.

Frank Coe, president of the Palmyra Mutual Insurance Co., accompanied by the secretary of the company and Attorney Dixon, were in the village Thursday. The insurance company has been sued by J. P. McWilliams to recover the value of one horse alleged to have been stricken by lightning about a month ago. The cause was set before Justice Sweet. A charge of venue to Justice Ackard was asked by the insurance company, objections to Mr. Ackard being made by Mr. McWilliams on the ground that Ackard is a policy holder in the Palmyra company, so the change was made to a Dixon J. P. The trial was set last Saturday, with what results we were unable to learn.

On Thursday last Supervisors Thos. P. Long of Harmon and F. E. Rogers of Pawpaw let a contract to the Clinton Bridge Co. to build a bridge across Green river along the Walnut road. The structure will be 120 feet in length and will cost $2,240. Other companies, the Indianapolis Bridge Co., the Lee County Bridge Co., and the Billmire Bridge Co., also bid on the contract. The work is to be finished in 60 days. On the 19th a contract for a bridge one mile west of the Walnut road will be let by the same committee.

William Long has the contract to erect a large barn for Mr. Fitzpatrick, east of here.

While on the way to fill a Sunday afternoon appointment, the horse driven by Rev. Spencer shied at a pile of tile and threw him into the ditch. Mr. Spencer suffered no serious injury and proceeded on his way. The buggy wheels, however, were so twisted that their tracks resembled those made by a drunken man.

PECATONICA EDITOR DEAD.

Nate L. Colby Stricken by Heart Trouble Dies Suddenly.

Nate L. Colby of Pecatonica, editor of the News, one of the best examples of the county editor in this state, died suddenly yesterday morning of heart trouble.

His passing removes a well known figure and the county press loses an exponent whose publication was a model for its class.

Mr. Colby rose yesterday morning at the usual hour and while dressing for the day the stroke came that snuffed his life out at once. He was in the bath room and had laced up one shoe, standing with his foot on the edge of the tub. As he straightened up to lift the other foot he made a motion as though to catch his balance and toppled over into the tub. His wife was close by and noting the fall hastened to his side but he was beyond help. Dr. C. H. Latham was called but could do nothing for the stricken man. Deceased had been suffering for some time from an affection of the heart and attendant "fils" and from what he had said it is probable he realized that death might overtake him at any time and was prepared for the summons. His family is greatly shocked by the sudden passing of the husband and father and no one was able to secure a sign of recognition from him after the stroke came.

Mr. Colby was a fine type of man. He had the fullest confidence of the people in his territory. He conducted a paper of the sort the people wanted and its success is the best indication of its merit. His paper was a model in many respects and was welcomed on every exchange table.

BIBLE INSTITUTE OPENS

Rev. E. K. Yeakel Delivered Lecture Upon "Palestine as I Saw It" Last Night

WILL CLOSE TOMORROW NIGHT

Rev. Unangst Will Speak Tonight Upon "Ways That Win"

Last night the Bible Institute at Grace church opened at 7:30 o'clock with a song service. There were about fifty delegates present besides the visitors. These delegates represent the seventeen churches of the Freeport district of the United Evangelical church. At 8 o'clock Rev. E. K. Yeakel of Shannontown gave a very interesting lecture upon "Palestine as I Saw It." Mr. Yeakel has just returned from the International Convention of Sunday School Workers held at Palestine.

This morning Rev. E. F. Fuessle of Highland Park, Chicago, delivered an instructing lecture upon "Prayer, its Needs and Purpose." This was followed by an address on "The Second Coming of Christ" by Rev. J. H. Keagle of Sterling. After this very interesting and profitable address, a map drill was held led by Rev. J. G. Elles of Bookville, Ill. This afternoon Bishop W. F. Heil of Highland Park, Chicago, addressed the institute upon "The Work of the Holy Spirit in Saving Souls." Bishop Heil has lately come from Pennsylvania where he has been engaged in church work for a great many years. This evening the newly elected presiding elder of the Freeport district, Rev. E. G. Unangst of Freeport, Ill., will speak upon "Ways That Win." The program for the remaining part of the institute will be as follows:

Odd Wreck at Sublette.

A peculiar wreck occurred Saturday evening in the Illinois Central yards at Sublette at about 7 o'clock. An extra south bound freight with engine and caboose stopped in the yards to pick up two cars. The caboose was left standing on the main track while the engine went to the south end of the yards to get the cars. One car was coupled to the front of the engine and the other at the rear. The car at the rear was dropped toward the caboose and a flying switch was made to get the car ahead of the engine into the train. There was a steep grade in the yards and as the brake on the first car was not set it started ahead and collided with the engine at the switch and completely overturned the big mogul. This blocked the main line. The car ahead of the wreck broke loose and ran down the track six miles to the station of Henkle. In the wreck Engineer Portnet received a sprained ankle and the fireman sustained a dislocated shoulder. The Freeport wrecking crew was called and worked until Sunday noon before the wreck was cleared up.

NACHUSA CORRESPONDENCE

Ice Cream Social—Missionary Society Will Hold Convention.

Nachusa, Ill., July 12.—The Nachusa Lutheran church will hold an ice cream and cake social at the home of Geo. Weidman and wife several miles north of Nachusa, a week from next Thursday night. Remembrance of the good time enjoyed there last year will draw an unusually large crowd.

Harry Weyant, of this place, who was married several weeks ago to Miss Mae Elcholtz of Woosung, returned home Monday from a wedding tour through Michigan. Mr. Weyant is one of our prosperous business men, and is wished much happiness by his many friends in his wedded life.

C. A. Lower, who has been visiting here for several weeks, started for his home in Pennsylvania Monday. He will make several stops on the way.

Peter Wilhelm of Chicago is visiting Nachusa friends and relatives. August Johnson and wife spent the Fourth in Chicago.

Frances, the little daughter of Lewis Welty, had her face and cheeks badly lacerated by the bites of a dog several days ago. It is hoped that there will be no serious results.

The Ladies' Home and Foreign Missionary society will hold their annual state convention here this fall. This meeting is greatly welcomed by our people, who will all join to make it a success.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Hamilton of Aurora have been visiting at the home of the formers parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. Hamilton for the past several days.

Mrs. Boyd Farver of Ashton visited relatives here last week.

C. B. Crawford of this place attended the funeral of Mr. Chester Herrington as pallbearer Monday.

The summer kitchen at the home of C. C. Parker caught fire at the chimney last Tuesday and the roof was nearly consumed before it was extinguished.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Brookner of Dixon visited relatives here Friday.

A MARION PICNIC.

Neighborhood Gathering Which Was Greatly Enjoyed on the Fourth.

Marion, Ill., July 12.—The picnic at Addison Kiefer's on July 4 was a decided success. Long tables had been constructed in the dense shade of a grove near the house, and about one o'clock the seventy-five people present sat down and ate at one time. The picnic party was made up of the children, parents and grandparents of the immediate vicinity. In the afternoon games of various sorts were played, one of the most interesting being the baseball game between the old men and the boys. The line up of the men was as follows: 1 B. A. E. Keefe (capt), S. S. E. W. Conderman, P. Silas Keefe, C. A. Ackert, 2 B. Church, 3 B. Mahlon Kent. The old men beat the boys which was probably due to C. Ackert's bracing them up with lemonade before going to bat. To say that every one enjoyed the day is putting it mildly.

Corn plowing is about finished and haying is well begun.

Miss Edith Ackert returned Tuesday, after a few days visit at Rockford with Miss Jessie Stott.

Master Byron Brooks has been quite ill since the Fourth.

Mrs. John Duis and daughter Pauline of Des Moines, Iowa, are visiting at Eldena Fischer's.

Rev. and Mrs. Morris and daughter Winnifred of DeKalb spent Tuesday with A. Ackert and family. Rev. Morris is pastor of the First Baptist church of that place.

NO SYMPATHETIC STRIKE

Says President O'Keefe, of the 'Longshoremen—Opposes Union Incorporation and "Compulsory Arbitration."

Milwaukee, July 12.—In his annual address to the convention of the 'Longshoremen's union President O'Keefe said, among other things: "Sympathetic strikes should never be countenanced or sanctioned by this organization. * * * The clamor for compulsory arbitration and incorporation of labor unions is not the desire of any laborer who may have given the matter a moment's consideration. "No friend of organized labor can regard compulsory arbitration other than a two-edged sword. The many injunctions of late by federal judges are but so many straws indicating how labor would fare with compulsory laws."

Clever Detective Work.
A distinguished surgeon, who was also a detective in embryo, was called to perform an operation upon a man who had been shot by an unknown assassin. The position of the man and the mystery of the shooting rendered the case notorious. The man was unconscious at the time of the operation, and nothing could be obtained from him. When the doctor examined the wound, he said to his assistant: "A pistol has been fired at him by a person who is left handed."

While he was explaining the reasons for his conclusion Mr. —'s partner, a Mr. X., entered the room. Something about his manner attracted the attention of the eminent surgeon, and he whispered to his colleague: "If that man were left handed, I should at once suspect him of the crime."

The next instant he turned to X. and said: "Will you kindly hand me that lint?" X. did so, using his left hand. The man died. X. was accused of the murder and upon being tried and condemned confessed his guilt.

Enforced Church Attendance.
In the reign of Edward VI. an act was passed which provided that every one "shall diligently and faithfully, having no lawful or reasonable excuse to be absent, endeavor themselves to their parish church or chapel accustomed, or, upon reasonable let, to some usual place where common prayer shall be used—on Sundays and holidays—upon penalty of forfeiting for every nonattendance 12 pence, to be levied by the church wardens to the use of the poor." As the years rolled on, however, the penalties for nonattendance became more and more severe, until in Elizabeth's reign such harsh legislation as the following was passed: "All persons who do not go to church or chapel or other places where common prayer is said according to the act of uniformity shall forfeit £20 per month to the queen, being thereof lawfully convicted, and suffer imprisonment until paid."

An Eastern Tale.
"In many cases," says Sir John Lubbock, "religious differences are mainly verbal. There is an eastern tale of four men—an Arab, a Persian, a Turk and a Greek—who agreed to club together for an evening meal, but when they had done so they quarreled as to what it should be. The Turk proposed azum, the Arab aneb, the Persian anghur, while the Greek insisted on staphyllon. While they were disputing—

The Tibetan Bible.
The Kabgyur, or Tibetan bible, consists of 108 volumes of 1,000 pages each, containing 1,083 separate books. Each of the volumes weighs ten pounds and forms a package twenty-six inches long, eight inches broad and eight inches deep. This bible requires a dozen yaks for its transport, and the carved wooden blocks from which it is printed need rows of houses, like a city, for their storage. A tribe of Mongols paid 7,000 oxen for a copy of this bible. In addition to the bible there are 225 volumes of commentaries, which are necessary for its understanding. There is also a large collection of revelations which supplement the bible.

To Preserve Cut Carnations.
To prevent that premature bursting of the calyx which so often injures the appearance of several varieties of carnations, especially the cut blooms, turn down the calyx of each blossom and slip beneath it close to the base of the sepals and quite out of sight a tiny collar of soft silk or cotton thread. Tie and cut off the ends of the thread, then turn the calyx back to its natural position, smoothing it carefully over the thread collar, and the flower will retain its perfect shape until it fades and dies.—Ladies' Home Journal.

When Honeymoons End.
The late Mrs. John Ridgway of Paris was noted for her ready wit. At one of her receptions apropos of marriage Guy de Maupassant said: "The honeymoon ends when the wife first asks the husband for money."

Strengthened His Suspicion.
Hugh Miller in "My Schools and Schoolmasters" tells us that while he was making his first after dinner speech he began to suspect that he was making a failure of it. This suspicion was strengthened when he took his seat, for the band at once began to play "A Man's a Man for A' That."

Attractive.
"Yes, his painting attracts a great many people."
"Great artist, eh?"
"No; just a house painter. He puts out a sign, 'Fresh Paint,' and every one touches it to see if it's dry."

Truth and Fiction.
Kwoter—After all, "truth is stranger than fiction," you know. Newitt—It may be stranger, but it isn't as successful. You never heard of truth going into "its twentieth edition in six months."—Philadelphia Press.

Easily Accommodated.
She—Have you a copy of Prometheus Bound? He—No, ma'am, but we can get it for you bound any way you like.—Minneapolis Tribune.

NIGHT WAS HER TERROR.
"I would cough nearly all night long," writes Mrs. Chas. Applegate, of Alexandria, Ind., "and could hardly get any sleep. I had consumption so bad that if I walked a block I would cough frightfully and spit blood, but when all other medicines failed, three $1.00 bottles of Dr. King's New Discovery wholly cured me and I gained 58 pounds." It's absolutely guaranteed to cure Coughs, Colds, La Grippe, Bronchitis and all Throat and Lung Troubles. Price 50c and $1.00. Trial bottles free at Rowland Bros' drug store.

BRUTALLY TORTURED.
A case came to light that for persistent and unmerciful torture has perhaps never been equaled. Joe Golobick of Cousa, California, writes: "For 15 years I endured insufferable pain from Rheumatism and nothing relieved me though I tried everything known. I came across Electric Bitters and it's the greatest medicine on earth for that trouble. A few bottles of it completely relieved and cured me." Just as good for Liver and Kidney troubles and general debility. Only 50c. Satisfaction guaranteed by Rowland Bros., Drugists.

NO PITY SHOWN.
"For years fate was after me continuously," writes F. A. Gallegher, Verbena, Ala. "I had a terrible case of Piles causing 24 tumors. When all failed Bucklen's Arnica Salve cured me. Equally good for Burns and all aches and pains. Only 25c at Rowland Bros' Drug Store."

WORKING NIGHT AND DAY.

Mrs. Minerva Smith, of Danville, Ill., writes: "I had bronchitis for twenty years and never got relief until I used Foley's Honey and Tar which is a sure cure." Rowland Bros.

NO FALSE CLAIMS.
The proprietors of Foley's Honey and Tar do not advertise this as a "sure cure for consumption." His Victory At Sea.....
By ANNE WARNER
Copyright, 1908, by T. C. McClure

Durant lay in his chair. The three chairs next to him were vacant. They were labeled in order "Mrs. Gabelle," "Miss Gabelle," "Miss Susan Gabelle." Beyond the three chairs came the chair of the Italian lady who had a baby. Durant looked across the vacant seats and saw the baby and blessed the intervening space. The Italian lady thought that he wanted to admire the baby and held it up high on purpose for him to see. But his gaze fled out upon the wide ocean beyond, and he did not recall it until he was ready to open his book and read.

In the middle of the afternoon a pretty girl in a red Tam O'Shanter came up and stood by the rail. Durant found himself looking at her over the top of his book and wishing that she might be Miss Gabelle. After awhile he had his wish, for she came across and sat down under her name. The Italian lady was delighted. Her baby had cried so hard that a kind hearted somebody had taken it to walk and left the mother free to enjoy society. Durant had been three chairs away, but Miss Gabelle was only half that distance removed. Mme. Italia leaned over and addressed her at once.

"She sees so good, mill baybee! Ill neffaarre haff anny trooble weeze her. All zeece laydees looff mill baybee—all zeece laydees tend mill baybee!"

Miss Gabelle looked so disgusted that the Italian was disconcerted and seized the trivial pretext of seeking her infant to rise from her seat and view life from the lee side.

The instant that she was out of sight the young girl sprang from her chair, and, hailing a passing steward, "Take these three chairs and carry them down to the other end of the deck," she said, pressing his hand to some purpose, "and do it right off, will you, please?"

She went inside directly she saw him bearing off the first chair, and Durant lost not a minute in detaching himself from his rugs, to the end that when the steward returned he might say, with an imitation of the initiative proceeding: "Take mine too."

The steward grinned and took his chair too. When Miss Gabelle reappeared she looked prettier than ever, and as she at once opened a book and became wholly absorbed in it Durant decided that the best thing for him to do was to go to sleep with his face turned in her direction and so be able to look at her all that he wanted to. After awhile he decided that she was quite the prettiest girl that he ever had seen and that he must know her somehow. Presently she closed her eyes, and soon after her fingers relaxed their hold of the book, and that slipped on to the deck. He vaulted over Mrs. Gabelle's chair and, picking the book up, smoothed the leaves carefully and laid it back on her lap. But she did not thank him or pay the slightest attention to his polite action. There are naps on deck and naps on deck, and Miss Gabelle had not gone to sleep with her face turned in Durant's direction.

When the first gong for dinner sounded she woke up with a start and flew below so quickly that he only had time to realize that she was going when she was gone.

The next morning he found her chaired and booked when he got up there himself. The wind had changed and was coming around the corner by the smoking room in a very trying manner, but he hardly noticed that in his tangled emotions over her proximity and distance.

She noticed it, though, and strove in vain to adjust a bit of embroidered coat collar so as to shut off a growing glare. Her efforts proving futile, she summoned a sailor who was busy lashing something to something else and opened her purse.

"Please carry these three chairs out of the wind," she said, smiling on him, and then she went inside.

The sailor grabbed two chairs and clumped away at a gait demanded by the exigencies of the situation.

Durant meanwhile extricated himself from his rugs with a sprightliness to be envied by the rheumatic and paralyzed and was up and waiting when the emissary of fate returned.

he had to drop her feet as if they scorched his hands. But he was richly rewarded for his effort, for the niece became freshly pink, smiled and remarked something about the weather, a species of conversational opening through which, on shipboard, men fall frequently and lose themselves forever. It came on to blow worse soon, and one terrific gust turned their plaids into distress signals and caused the deck steward, who was whirling about just then distributing cakes and tea as if he was a new species of revolving dumb waiter, to suggest that they would be much more comfortable upon the other side.

"I think so, too," said Miss Gabelle. "After you are through with the tea won't you take our three chairs around there?"

"Gewiss!" said the man and spun away.

Miss Gabelle drank her tea with great breeziness, so to speak, and then went below to see how her aunt was surviving. She smiled on Durant as she passed, and hope foamed high on the surf of his heart wave. When the steward came for the chairs, it was in a voice of the utmost assurance that he was bidden:

"Take mine too."

When Miss Gabelle came back she seemed not at all surprised at seeing him still one of their party. She even smiled again when he sprang up to install her among her wraps. And then when she was entrenched in her castle of pillow and plaid he boldly occupied the neighboring territory, and, as the powers in her case were otherwise engaged, no one entered a protest.

And then they talked. How they did talk! Only a seafarer knows how far into a heart to heart conversation two may progress by the third day out! To make matters more agreeable the wind freshened so that even upon the sheltered side a pretty girl required continuous and solicitous retucking.

Toward night it began to rain. "I think that we must move again," Durant suggested with a heavy accent on the "we."

"Dear me, so we must," she answered, beginning to prepare to rise. He sprang to her aid, he extricated her from her rugs, he hailed a deck hand, and he pointed out his work to him.

"Take those four chairs out of the wet," he told him in such a tone as Nelson used at Trafalgar. "He'll have them all ready when we come up after dinner," he added to Miss Gabelle. She smiled sweetly.

"I'm so glad I have met you," she said as they went inside (together this time). "I've been dreading such a long, lonely voyage."

Durant looked down at her, and she looked up at him. They both smiled, and she blushed.

Is it necessary to say more? Try and guess the outcome.

Ruskin on Rome.
These appear to me incontrovertible and accurate conclusions—that the Roman streets are damp and moldy where they are not burning; that the modern architecture is fit only to put on a Twelfth cake in sugar (e. g., the churches at the quattro Fontane); that the old architecture consists chiefly of heaps of tufo and bricks; that the Tiber is muddy; that the fountains are fantastic; that the castle of St. Angelo is too round; that the capital is too square; that St. Peter's is too big; that all the other churches are too little; that the Jews' quarter is uncomfortable; that the English quarter is unpicturesque; that Michael Angelo's "Moses" is a monster; that his "Last Judgment" is a mistake; that Raphael's "Transfiguration" is a failure; that the Apollo Pelyedere is a public nuisance; that the bills are high, the malaria strong, the dissipation shameful, the bad company numerous, the sirocco depressing, the Tramontana chilling, the Levante parching, the Ponente pelting, the ground unsafe, the politics perilous and the religion pernicious. I do think that in all candor and reflective charity I may assert this much—Letter to Charles Elliot Norton in Atlantic.

Pulpit Malapropisms.
At a meeting of ministers the other day one of them laid great stress on the importance of considering the sort of audience one is going to address. "I once lost a chance to preach an effective sermon by using the stereotyped beginning, 'I am glad to see so many of you present this morning.' The congregation burst into a laugh. You see, they were prisoners in a state penitentiary, and the poor fellows had to be present."

This brought forth another story from one who for some years was chaplain of a penitentiary. He had decided to remove from the town and take a charge elsewhere.

Are Hearing Objection.

This afternoon the jury on the Inlet Swamp drainage assessment listened to the objections of the property holders in the drainage district. There were only eleven jurymen present, Xavier F. Gehant being absent on account of the sickness of his sister, Mrs. Henry. The property holders were asked if they had any objections to presenting their complaints concerning the assessments to eleven jurymen. No objection was raised and the court proceeded to listen to the complaints of the property holders.

A Good Audience Present.

Royce Long gave a very interesting talk Sunday afternoon at the Men's meeting at the Y. M. C. A. rooms. A large audience was present and the three selections given by the Y. M. C. BY A GAS CONSUMER TO THE LEE COUNTY LIGHTING CO.

"GENTLEMEN—1. I have cooked on all kinds of stoves, all over the United States ever since I was married (48 years ago), but your gas range infinitely excels them all. Less trouble to operate—exceedingly simple—a child can work it—no coal or wood to tote in—no ashes to take out—no smoke—no soot—perfectly clean—always ready—when everything is prepared light the gas—when everything is done extinguish the fire. This makes it the most economical.

"2. It is the most efficient—will bake, roast, toast, fry, broil, stew, boil—all at one time and do anything else better and quicker than any other.

"3. I have used a Gas Range four years. Could I not get another, would not part with it for ten times its cost."

From Another Consumer:

"GENTLEMEN: My enthusiasm over the gas range is to be explained by the fact of its having solved for me the most difficult problem of the modern housekeeper, the servant question.

"The Coal Range, with its increasing demand for attention, ashes, smoke refractory dampers, necessitated the services of a cook constantly.

"Since the installment of my gas range I do my own cooking and find it not only free from drudgery, but a positive pleasure. My meals are prepared in the length of time it formerly took to get my stove hot, and considering the fact that I have saved a cook's wages and board, I can honestly say that the gas range puts money in the bank for me every month." 162t6

NOTICE

William Gilbert, Jr., will not be responsible for any debts his wife contracts. 192t3
